

One month to go! Fiesole 7-9 April 2025

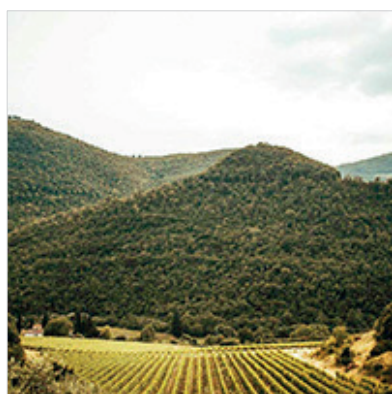

In just over a month, scholars, publishers and information professionals will gather in Fiesole for the 25th Fiesole Collection Development Retreat.

Register now to join the conversation on topical themes, reflect with colleagues from across the scholarly information sector on past developments and identify shared strategies, both to respond to the priorities facing us today and to prepare for tomorrow.

Don't miss out on the opportunity to share experiences and knowledge with an international community, hear thought-provoking contributions from respected colleagues on subjects ranging from AI to changes in attitudes to the humanities, biodiversity in the information chain to metrics, and how to create and support more widespread, open and inclusive access to cultural heritage and knowledge. Consult our programme to discover what's in store!

As always, the Retreat offers a rich social programme, as well as optional tours presenting opportunities to visit places of local interest and enjoy the surrounding territory.

Visit the Historical Archives of the European Union (HAEU) in Villa Salviati. Archivist Mary Carr provides a comprehensive presentation on HAEU's mission and its archival treasures exploring the essential steps of the European Union integration history. The visit concludes with a tour of state-of-the-art archival deposits and a fascinating visit of the villa grottoes.

Taste local wines in a guided tour of Castello del Trebbio, in the heart of Chianti Rufina. A bilingual guide and trained sommelier leads this excursion to the stunning Castello del Trebbio, used in the planning of the Pazzi conspiracy plot to displace the Medici family as rulers of Renaissance Florence. Participants will discover more about the castle's rich history and visit its beautiful cellars to learn about the wine and olive oil production, sampling a selection of the estate's high quality produce.

Full programme details and all additional information can be found on the conference website at www.fiesoleretreat.org; please contact us at retreat@fiesoleretreat.org with any further questions.
